With Love from God to you

The following sentences of these chapters are for meditation and for your spiritual guidance. Some of these sentences may be just for you, to help your throughout the next several months or years.

Achieve deep and thorough understanding of the divine truth contained. Concentrate deeply for a few minutes on a single sentence - ask GOD to give you the reply - then let the sentence go to make place for the answer to appear in your consciousness.

If you fully open yourself, absorb all these, Divine truth and Love will free you.

Just remember:

As long as you are holding onto a question - the answer never can show up, because your mind is occupied by the question.

Techniques for Meditation

Methods for meditation and what to consider when selecting your method

There are two basic methods of meditation practiced:

- With your mind completely empty concentrating on emptiness
- With your full concentration on a particular object

Before we shall have a more in depth look into meditation and understand the above two different principles applied in meditation, there are a few other questions to be answered:

- What is meditation
- Why do people meditate
- What do people expect from meditation
- What is the purpose of meditation in spiritual traditions
- How can we achieve this goal

What is meditation?

An extended and continuous concentration on a single object, with this object being the only thought in your mind, may be a good definition of meditation. If you can practice this for more than 5 minutes with one single object in your mind and ALL your concentration being directed continuously on that particular object, then you may have reached a good beginners level of meditation-practice. How easy or how difficult it can become to accomplish this, depends on the object you concentrate on. If you keep God in your mind it shall become quite easy, as God is Love, peace, harmony, tranquility, health and all the powerful positive aspects you may imagine.

Why do people meditate?

Daily life may often cause lots of turmoil in your mind and emotions. Stress with your job, your family and political or economical situation of your surroundings of your life may cause lots of anxiety, fears, emotions and thoughts, acting like a storm inside you. Mankind on earth has most often forgotten to live according to spiritual laws and Divine principles of God's creation. So they are sometimes creating Karma several times each day almost on a continuous basis.

Another reason for meditation is an advanced spiritual technique. Extended meditation by fully concentrating on an object, until becoming one with the object of meditation leads to the knowledge about the object. This technique is called Samyama. It is a technique that may be used to get an answer about important spiritual questions, or find solutions for important situations of your life. But as a beginner you may practice thousands of hours of meditation before you may become one with the object of meditation. What is is slowing down your success? Your anxieties, your expectations about the answer, your desires, preoccupation, ... your ego.

So instead of practicing in the beginning of your spiritual path Samyama, you would get much better results if you start continuously working on your spiritual progress by dissolving all your ego, your wishes, in the fire of Divine Love. If once all your personality has been filled with the Divinity of your soul - made to the image of God - then you may need only minutes or seconds to achieve knowledge about an object, since one with God, you may have easy access of all the knowledge you truly need. Intuition is the advanced method of achieving knowledge about important objects in God's creation. You simply look at something and you may instantly know everything that might be important for the moment.

The use of meditation to gain peace within and to concentrate on God, the Divine is the recommended method and use of meditation. Some important spiritual wisdom may however be achieved to help you to understand the true meaning of life on earth in a physical body and to speed up your spiritual progress. You may find a few important and helpful questions to meditate and / or think about in another chapter or you may ask God to help you understand it before falling asleep in night time. Receiving an answer through meditation is much different than reading it. When receiving an answer by meditation then you are fully aware even within yourself of the full content and meaning of the answer. By reading an answer you may intellectually know it, keep it stored in your physical brain without having it ever understood. For that particular reason many wise man from the past have written questions to meditate about - rather than provided intellectual answers. One such examples may be the Yoga Sutras from Patanjali, or Lao Tse.

What do people expect from meditation?

Meditation is then experienced as a relief of all this mental and emotional pressure. People expect it to create some calm within and if properly done it really does successfully relief you of any stress, emotional and mental.

What is the purpose of meditation in spiritual traditions?

The purpose of meditation in all spiritual traditions is to:

- empty your mind to become ready for pure consciousness
- empty your emotions to become aware of your surrounding's emotions
- relief all your stress and emotional and / or mental pressure
- create peace of mind and harmony within yourself
- replace your emotional or mental turmoil by something positively and actively sacred and Divine

How can we achieve this goal?

First of all there definitely is a need to immediately stop any action causing such turmoil in your emotions, mind and actions. This is done by conducting a peaceful life in harmony with the Divine. To start this, you need to learn again to listen to his Divine and loving guidance. It is all the disharmony in your thoughts, emotions, words and actions that caused the turmoil. All the Karma you ever created will collect and be with you, until you start to change your style of life. Serious study of all spiritual laws and practicing and applying them in every days situation of your job, business, family, friends, recreation, politics, and any other situation of your life will be the first step toward creating peace within.

It makes little sense to meditate in order to create peace, as long as you still persist in creating turmoil before and after meditation in your daily life. So be ready to change your life, your inner and outer behavior while at the same time start to practice daily meditation and applying or living the spiritual laws in every days situations.

Some spiritual traditions practice meditation by concentrating on emptiness. This is quite difficult, because there is no emptiness in the entire creation. So these person applying successfully this method often are hanging between two centers of consciousness, i.e. between physical and astral body, being neither in physical nor in astral body. Or between astral and causal body, again being neither in astral nor in causal body. You may somehow compare it to the gear of a car. The "normal" procedure is to move from one center up to the next higher until you are one with Godconsciousness. Like shifting in a automobile from 1st gear to 2nd and 3rd up to the highest one when accelerating. Like in a automobile before shifting to the next higher gear, a driver usually accelerates to a certain speed before shifting to the next gear. A similar principle works in meditation. Before you can move from one center of consciousness to the next higher one, you may definitely need to increase the vibration of your present consciousness and all its pertaining parts in your spiritual body and its aura. This point is hard if ever to be accomplished when concentrating on emptiness, besides the fact that there is no emptiness at all, so you may waste some time to look for something in-existing. How can you move from one point to another when there is no orientation, no driving force that keeps you moving in a constant direction with all your spiritual practice.

Others are meditating by using a large variety of Mantrams, or by using the picture of a Guru or deity to concentrate on. Some Mantrams are associated with deities, others with "metaphysical gifts". When you concentrate on Mantrams, deities or Gurus, it may lead to the result of you becoming one with the object of your concentration. Contemplation as a result of extended concentration is leading to Samyama - becoming one with the object of concentration. If this is what you are practicing, you may realize one day that you have achieved your goal, being in beautiful Worlds and universes - far away from God. That is the reason why in many Holy scriptures there is a warning - you should never have other deities beside me. Striving for unity with any deity may lead to this achievement, but this can and may lead to being far away from the source of all sources for a long time before you may realize how far you are from your intended goal.

Since the only true spiritual goal can be oneness with God, the Infinite, the Source of all sources, it should be your true and honest intention to have only God in mind when meditating. God is the Source of all sources, the Infinite beyond any creation and manifestation, thus God has the highest vibration of all. Everything is made of and by God. But any deity is a manifestation, like a highly evolved soul. God the Infinite source of Divine Love in your mind keeps you accelerating steadily, while replenishing your mind with Divine peace and Love again and again, dissolving in Divine Love anything else in your aura and mind. When you truly understand the principle of Samyama, then you may understand why it is advisable to concentrate on God and nothing else. It is the goal of any true spiritual tradition to achieve God-Realization through God-Union. This can only be reached when aiming at God in your concentration all the time. It is a straight forward evolution on your spiritual path and as God is Love, it also means your spiritual path will become paved with Love. Union with a deity can never be a true spiritual goal. Spiritual in its absolute and traditional sense is always directly God-related thus finally leading to God the absolute beyond any manifestation.

The concentration on God may sometimes appear difficult, because there has been too much time elapsed since your last incarnation where you have been closed or one with God. So therefor you may need the help of a Mantram to concentrate on God during your meditation. OM is the only Mantram that is directly related to the Infinite beyond any manifestation. The repetition of this Mantram is the only one that should really be ever practiced if you prefer the use of a Mantram. Learn to properly pronounce it. In different languages people pronounce the two letter OM differently, that is the reason why sometimes it is also written Aum. As this again may be pronounced correctly like the original Sanskrit Mantram in those languages. The original is Sanskrit and there is only one way to pronounce it in Sanskrit - OM in Sanskrit is a letter of its own.

Besides the use of a Mantram you may use a word that has an attraction to God and is directly related to God the Absolute. One such word is Love. The word Love in any language can be used to create a relationship to God and cause Divine energy from God to flow to you and through you and to finally uplift you to become one with your source. You may even say the sentence "God is Love" in any language to initiate you meditation.

God is Love. It is one of his principles to be Love beyond any manifestation. So concentrating on Love can relate you to God and at the same time fill you with this most Divine principle of Divinity - Love - until you are becoming a being of Love. A being of Love is always filled with wisdom, calmness, peace, harmony, grace and mercy, as these are but manifestations of Love.

God beyond manifestation can sometimes be perceived as the sound of OM, a humbling sound sometimes similar to the sound of a propeller engine of an ancient aircraft. This sound however never is heard inside your ears, it vibrates and sounds everywhere. First may be in your entire head - some people may consider it at first to be Tinnitus - a hearing disorder. But when properly listening, you may realize, this sound comes from anywhere and everywhere within. It can be heard like any audible sound, it may be strong and consistent in your daily life, whatever you do. It is a proof of the omnipresence of God within you. Whenever you hear this, be happy and open yourself to this sound. Imagine it like being an ultrasonic sound "cleaning" your body, mind and soul. It is like if God was saying to you.

"I love you - I miss you - come home and be happy again, just devote yourself to this sound, to me and with the power of my omnipresent and omnipotent Divine Love I shall lift you up into my spheres - into your Divine home in me and near me"

Concentration on this OM sound is very powerful for meditation, as it is a direct perception of the Divine. You may use the freeing and healing power of God's OM sound by directing it in any part of your body where you may have any physical disorder. The best however is to let it expand on its own. Just welcome God in all parts of your being including in all your physical body, your personality, your Karma, your emotions and your mind. The same applies for the light you may perceive, as described below.

Some people may perceive this vibration of OM as brilliant light whenever they close their physical eyes during meditation, or they may perceive it with open eyes in their surroundings. Everything is filled with a brilliant light beyond any physical description. Like powerful light coming from many sources. It never can create any shadows because it is omnipresent. It is another way of direct perception of the Divine within and around you. When the 3rd eye - in Sanskrit called Kutashta - is opening, this then may one day become a normal perception of you. The 3rd eye is used for vision of the astral universes and the astral / mental aura of beings, including manifested beings without a physical body. This light may be seen in the air, in and around any objects and has nothing to do with the aura of any object. It is a manifestation of the omnipresent Holy Spirit flowing trough all of us at any time. When you perceive this brilliant light, then just let it fill you throughout your entire body and aura, let it heal and free you. Keep it in your mind, your consciousness and as a focus of your concentration. This again is a very powerful help for meditation equal to the sound of OM.

In Kriya Yoga the Mantram of OM, the sound of OM and the light of OM are used as the preferred methods for meditation and the various techniques of Kriya Yoga. It is certainly advisable to use these methods as a standard for any true spiritual meditation.

Whenever you meditate, call for Divine help from God first in a deep and honest prayer. This may be only for seconds or a few minutes. It is your honest devotion to God that is important. Ask God to help you to meditate more successfully, to release you of anything that may keep you away from him. By the power of his almighty mercy, grace and Divine Love, God certainly shall listen to any call of any of his Divine Children -

We all are Divine Children - made to the image of God

Remember:

God loves you and always did so.

It is but you who for a short while forgot to love God and all his creation in all and any situation.

With Divine Love and Bliss

Dissolve your Ego in Love

Burn your ego in the fire of God's Divine Love and it will dissolve like an ice-cube in the Sun

Did you ever hear boiling water crying of pain?

- So does your ego as it vanishes away in the light of Divine Love

The only Divine way to dissolve an ego is to love it until nothing but Love is left your present personality is your ego if your present personality is but loving - it has become Divine - made to the image of God

your present personality is your ego if your present personality is but loving

- it has become Divine

Divine Love from Soul to Soul from Person to Person

If you can say

Love is all I ever can give you - Love is all I ever gave you nothing but Divine, gentle, tender, healing Love isn't that little ?? only Love ???

Love, nothing but Love - only Love no insult, no jealousy, no envy, no anger, no punishments!! nothing but Love, gentle, tender, Divine, healing Love!! just Love, nothing but Love! isn't that much?? How can you ever pay for such a Divine gift? just with your Love - nothing but Love!!

If you can say:

"I love you" to anyone, to everyone

- and actually do it, show it, proof it - from the depth of your heart and your soul - then you start to be on your way to God

To all beloved Children - to all beloved Souls

Ī	Love	ie	all	Т	AVA	can	aiva	VOL
Ļ	LUVE	ıo	all	ч	CVCI	Carr	give	you

- Love is my being love is my life
- all I do is done of Love, is done with Love

When you see me

- then you are away from me when you touch me

- then you are apart from me when you love - then I am one with you inside you and you inside me like a drop and an ocean becoming one the ocean is one with the drop and the drop one with the ocean

I never can be explained by scientists

- but experienced by any lover

All you keep in mind, separates you from me

Love your Enemies

Your "enemies" teach you to love

- when you have learned to love all of them
- when you have learned to love ALL
- when you have learned to wish but love, desire but love, do but love
- then you are ready to come home

I am within all your "enemies" because all is made by me all is alive through me when you beat your "enemies" - you beat me when you hate your" enemies" - you hate me when you punish your "enemies" - you punish me when you love your "enemies" - you love me

The biggest "Sinners" become the greatest Saints

The biggest "sinners" will become the greatest Saints

- they have lived all or many different experiences of different kind and of different nature
- and developed Divine Love to dissolve in Love all their thoughts, emotions and deeds
- they thus have learned to love all those who are still making similar experiences in the World of Manifestations

Separation

what you hold in your mind - creates Separation what you hold in your heart - creates Separation what you hold in your hands - creates Separation all the secrets you know - create Separation all the patents you have - create Separation all the copyright your withhold - create Separation all the money in your bankaccounts -create Separation all the property you possess - create Separation if you have nothing but Love - you are one with all

Future

Future is created by mankind Future can be dissolved by mankind when you do tomorrow what needs to be done today future is created when you do later what needs to be done anyway future is created when you help tomorrow someone in need today future is created when you feed tomorrow someone hungry today future is created when you warm tomorrow someone freezing today future is created when you heal tomorrow someone suffering today future is created when you love tomorrow someone needing Love today future is created when you pay tomorrow a bill you received today future is created when you write a bill tomorrow for something you gave today future is created your Future separates you from your divine home your Future separates you from Love

Churches and Temples when flowers grow on all Temples and Churches then you find my Temple of Love I made for you when Trees are growing on all Temples and Churches then you find my Temple of Love I made for you when all Treasure hidden in Temples and Churches on earth are given away to the needy and poor ones then you will find my Temple of Love I made for you

The door to the only true Temple I ever made for you is always open to all every second, every minute, every hour 24 hours a day 365 days a year every year always from eternity to eternity any true Divine Temple or Church always is open day and night giving shelter to all the needy ones giving warmth to all freezing ones giving food to all hungry ones giving Love to all within my true Temple of Light and Love all can sleep all can live all can enjoy all are free all are welcome - any time - always - from eternity to eternity my Temple of Love is infinite my Temple of Love lasts eternally the door to my Temple of Love and Light is deep inside you - through your heart and through your soul you will find the door to my world of Love - your Temple of Love - made for you with Love

I am your Temple of Love

Envy

If you envy others who have more than you work more if you envy others who are much richer than you work much more if you envy others who are more happy than you make more people happy if you envy others who get more love than you love more if others envy you for having more than they do share more

Insurance

If you want to create some additional karma you need karma insurance if you want to cause more damage to others you need liability insurance if you want to steel from others one more times you need theft insurance if you want to cheat others one more times you need more theft insurance if you want to get angry again, fight others, argue with others, you need medical insurance if you want to hurt others again with your words, fantasies, deeds, again and again you need full medical, accident, liability, karma and life insurance if there is no insurance for your needsor the insurance system is getting too complicated or too expensive for your situation you need more Love if you want to save all that fortune others spend for all their insurance while still keeping all the karma related they have caused - you need Love

- Love is the divine insurance covering everything by preventing everything and anything insurance is needed for all those ready to continue to create

- any kind of karma, any kind of damage to mankind, animals, or the environment, to the entire creation no insurance can ever dissolve karma or any true damage caused

- only Love can do so

Parents and Children

you the Parents have made Love some time ago babies never create themselves, parents create babies Souls never have Sex with future Parents, Parents have Sex with each other, making babies, attracting Souls you the Parents have created a physical body for a Soul to be attracted - coming to you into that baby body of yours hence it is your sole responsibility that Children are in your home now you have attracted a Soul to come from heaven into your home now it is up to you to create heaven on earth for your Children in your home treat them like Angels love them like Angels Angels always are free Angels always are made by me and before and after all remember:

they have been given to you by me given as your Guests given to make you happy, to receive your Love to make you happy they need your Love with your love they love you now they are in your home to be loved by you and to love you loving you is only possible if you treat them like my children like beings of Love and Light, like Angels of Love because mine they always have been they always have the right to return to me, any time, any day I always have the right to recall them back to my Love, any time any day whenever they are missing your Love - they return to me to still their hunger of Love and one day they all return to me

Children and Parents

you the Children of this Parents, one day during a previous incarnation or in the astral worlds or near me you may have created the desire or the karma to visit just that particular family your very parents from among all the choices on earth this family is the very best possibility - the most loving one among all the other options it was your own free choice to reincarnate my eternal Love for you always welcomed you in your divine and eternal home in me never ever have I asked any of my children to leave me or to go to any planet away from me it always was your own free choice to do so hence all that results is the result of your very own free choice you may have been your present parents previous parents in one of their previous incarnations hence your present parents may be the product of your very own parenting, your very own previous education or you may have loved them while seeing how much your present parents have got lost in my creation how much they forgot who they are and always have been how much they forgot where they true home is how much they forgot who their real father / mother is find out the sole reason of your present incarnation why you selected this very parents as your present parents what karma needs to be dissolved in Love what you can learn from this very parents how you can help this very parents love your present parents and help them to find their way home to me by coming yourself home again before or after your parents do so

Love your Parents and allow them to Love you please keep in mind that while you never asked your parents to make you - your physical body, it is only you you has made the karma and or decision to come to your present parents home you have selected this family for a very particular reason of your own you could as well have come home to your eternal home in me always keep in mind where your true and eternal home is always keep in mind who your true father / mother is your true and eternal home always is in me I always love you, I always did so and always will do so - eternally

Bible and Books

why learn from printed scriptures when you can learn from me from the source of all dwelling deep inside you flowing through you and through all ever since no one ever became a Saint from reading the holy scriptures of this world but many became Saints by practicing what's written in holy scriptures and many became Saints by practicing what has been told by living Saints on earth many became a Saint by following the living sample of those coming on earth with all my Bliss and Love if you fail to believe living Saints of mine how can you believe printed books of yours the more knowledge you accumulate

- the more separates you from Divine and absolute Truth and Divine Consciousness all you keep in mind, separates you from me the more you learn to more separates you from Love Love is the key to my home for you Love never can be learned Love always existed within you the source of Love always dwelled within waiting to be pored to the outside to flow through all of yours and back to me reading inspiring books may be helpful, it takes a few hours to read an inspiring book another few hours to re-read it, a few days, weeks, months or years to understand it and a lifetime to practice it

Sins

"Sins" are thoughts, deeds, emotions made empty of Love since without Love

- all these are empty of Divinity
- hence painful

if however you apply Love to all these "sins"

- they all become healed
- including all other beings involved with it
- hence all becomes Divine even if you apply all Love afterwards

- you can heal all you ever have done
- it just is a question of the "amount" Love needed to heal it all "sins" are just experiences missing Love love when making experiences and all will always remain Divine

Grace and Mercy

Grace and Mercy are like a boomerang you may expect as much when you need it for yourself as you practiced when others needed it from yourself

Grace and Mercy are Divine manifestations of true Love who ever loves has mercy upon all who ever loves is graceful to all who ever loves, loves all all the time who ever loves - always may find all doors to heaven open who ever returns home and failed to have mercy upon others whoever failed to be graceful to others may miss just that amount of Grace and Mercy for himself to really make his way back all then left is to love, to love even more, to love with all the power of your heart and soul and ask for Grace and Mercy as Divine Grace and Mercy from all can free any soul

Discussions

A discussion is the verbal war between two or more Egos

The absolute can never be discussed - but experienced

I never discuss - I always love

Divine truth is absolute

Limits

Limits are like a nightmare they separate you from me but all limits can be dissolved instantly in love all limits exist in your mind only

- like a dream that vanishes in the day light after you wake up all limits vanish in the divine light of Love once you spiritually wake up

All and any limit and border, political, social, cultural, personal need to be dissolved before you ever can be one as soon as you dissolved all your limits you may instantly become one with your lover as your one limits are all that ever separated you from me

Whenever you exclude a single being in the creation from your Love

- you also exclude me from your soul
- because everything is part of me
- made of Love
- made by Love Whatever you imagine separates you from the truth

Time

living here and now means fulfilling anything immediately when you always keep loving you have all the time and still are free of any time when you keep loving you are beyond time eternally free eternally loved

Love can dissolve anything even time however when you stop loving you need time since you need patience patience is needed where Love is missing where Love is missing time occurs as you delay what could be dissolved now to a later date when you remember your potential of Love again later or now time or eternity

Control

Whatever you are controlling

- controls you control is needed where Love is missing

- control cost money
- Love is free

Any Divine solution always is free

- you get it
- just for Love
- just for being a child of God

Possessions

whatever you possess possesses you as the possession of any object creates

- an idea of possessing
- an attachment directly proportional to the importance in your mind of the object you possess hence the idea possess you until you free anything you possess then you are free again immediately that is the reason why so many people can peacefully fall sleep and return home after having given all possessions to others anything you possess keeps you away from me keeps you from loving prevents you being happy takes all the place needed for my Love and Bliss

Laws and Divine Rules the more laws the less Love the more rules the less freedom the less freedom the less Love when all the law books of this planet have been burnt all people have been freed then love starts to flow through all then love starts to heal all then love frees all when all rules in temples, monasteries, churches have been dissolved in Love when all rules and laws have been dissolved in Love in all countries, governments, religions, cultures, organizations, families then mankind finds healing love and bliss to be abundant to prosper in whatever they do then mankind finds its way of Love home or the freedom to go where ever they want - to be happy eternally

I am but Love no rules no laws but Love - only Love all rules all laws will always be broken and dissolved by all my children as from the very depth of all hearts and souls all my children know their infinite and eternal truth is absolute hence free of any limits free of limits implies free of rules and laws as only love is eternal and infinite all laws and rules shall be broken with Love and dissolved in Love until all have learned to love once all have learned to love - only Love rules the Universes

Fear or Faith

You attract whatever you fear

God's Love

the object of fear occupying your mind creates a powerful magnetism to attract the fulfillment of that fear if true faith in God occupies your mind - what else but Divinity and love could be in your mind what else but divinity and Love could you ever attract ??

switching between fear and faith is like switching light on or off, like looking to the left or to the right you can achieve it instantly and permanently always focus forward to God - to Love anything else will instantly dissolve in the divine power of Fear is the absence of Faith in God the opposite of God it grows in darkness but when light and Love comes - it is already gone fear can kill and still is out of reach fear is like vacuum - it is nothing where Love belongs fear is the absence of willingness to love

Revolution of Love

Revolutions have been conducted by mankind since thousands of years on this planet and beyond on this planet most of them with weapons all of the armed Revolutions only had losers any war only has losers killing others never creates a victor suppressing others never creates a victor every policeman is a loser every soldier is a loser until they turn into lovers - with Love every king is a loser every president is a loser every manager is a loser every boss is a loser until they become lovers - with Love dissolving your ego in Love only creates victors only Love can dissolve your ego love only can win any revolution by creating victors most people may fear Love all governments on earth do fear Love because Love is more powerful than all their weapons Love is more powerful as all their armies and police forces Love is more powerful as all death penalties and suppressions announced

Love is the key to the door that allows you to escape any prison, any country, any refuge, any palace, any place on earth

Love guides you on a secret path of Love to me, to your heavenly father, in Love, with Love you only have access and full control to this secret door, deep within you this door is kept open for you by my Love eternally when you withdraw from any earthly struggle drop any possession and attachment on earth to easily pass through this door of Love made for you love never can bee controlled as love controls all as all is made of Love nothing can control Love but love controls all without love - nothing is now is the time for the final Revolution a Revolution of Love it only can have winners the most effective Revolution of any kind is the Revolution of Love make all changes instantly by fully focusing on the development of Love Peace and Freedom will result leave all others who still want to fight just leave them with Love leave all the money to those who made it it is written on each money who is the owner leave it - return it to the owner if he wants it and find peace and freedom in Love have you ever attempted to eat money? it is hard if at all to digest but you can eat carrots, apples, vegetables, fruits, ... they all grow for free on your land I gave all planet to you, to all mankind never intended anyone to possess it never intended anyone to control it never intended anyone to sell or buy it it all has been given for free to all of you in equal shares to take care of it as long as you need it with Love for free as Love always is free all I ever give you and gave you always has been free and will be free just for Love

I make all your food grow - with Love, for free I make all your hearts beat - with Love for free I make all the healing herbs - with Love for free I made all inventions - with Love for free I gave all inspirations - with Love for free I have done so and will do so - from eternity to eternity what do you need money for ? if all important things are free - for love, with Love have you ever tried to give money to a tree ? did the tree make more fruits or better ones or bigger ones ?

leave all those things that separate you from god to those who like it or those who made it be free and do what you love most - but do it with Love a revolution of love will make you all free because even those who possess you all those who manage you all those who govern you all those who reign you are possessed by their idea of possessing you they all lost their own freedom lost all love needed they all take your life, your love, your energy, your lifeforce to live on they all have forgotten to love love is the only key to open the door to their own source of Love dwelling deep within - eternally when you turn away from them all orienting toward your source of Love they all starve of Love search for love find their own source of Love find me deep inside them all I have been waiting with Love deep inside them all from eternity to eternity with Love nothing but Love - for them all - for you all - in Love just imagine how peaceful a war if all mankind loves none has time to fight they all spend all time to love - nothing but love how weak an army empty soldiers how weak a government empty of policemen what will happen to all these fighters left behind - left alone what will happen to all the kings, presidents - left alone with all their wealth and all their fear I will love them all take care of them all in Love - with Love how free a planet without restriction how happy a planet without rules and laws how happy a planet full of Love as love only prospers in freedom

I am free - because I am Love you are free - because you are made to my image like a bird only gets birdies God only gets God-babies, sometimes called angels once you have grown up you are Gods made of Love, made to love, made to be free before all has been reached, you all understand and become aware of all creation's principles and learn to apply the principle of divine Love - eternally in Love - with Love

Contracts

Contracts are needed when Love is lost whoever signs a contract never gets Love until you give all contracts until you give all resulting slavery to me - with Love and receive freedom - in Love when you need some one to help you you may use a contract and get help for money pay with your soul for the money you need to pay for help or you love and get help for Love in freedom and Love - with Love Marriage or Friendship and Love do you want to possess another soul marry him do you want to be possessed by another soul get married do you want Love love do you want a friend love do you want a friend for eternity love eternally marriage is a contract to live together empty of Love contract of marriage costs freedom lost freedom prevents Love love in freedom Love expands in freedom Love unites in freedom Love makes friends do you want a husband or wife or friendship and Love in god no marriage in God Love eternal Love eternal freedom

Stress

when you divide eternity into fractions stress occurs when you rape your soul stress occurs when you create limits where infinity stress occurs when you limit yourself by time or space stress occurs when you create illness stress occurs when you fear the "nothing" beyond death stress occurs - because beyond death is infinity and eternity - all lies cause stress when you fear Love stress occurs - because love can but heal - all lies cause stress missing knowledge of the absolute causes stress missing knowledge of the truth causes stress missing knowledge of your truth causes stress

Love dissolves all stress

Love gives knowledge Love is truth death is Love Love heals Love is eternal Love is infinite

All your Wishes come true

Your wishes can only become true when you release them all your wishes come true all your prayers come true all your desires are fulfilled

- just for Love
- nothing but Love
- YOUR LOVE

made of me all you can see is made of me all lady bugs you can see are made of me all worms you can see are made of me all ants you can see are made of me all dogs you can see are made of me all elephants you can see are made of me all cows you can see are made of me all plants you can see are made of me all flowers you can see are made of me all your babies you can see are made of me all your parents you can see are made of me all your fathers you can see are made of me all your mothers you can see are made of me all sisters you can see are made of me if ever you reject one of any you reject me when ever you love all you love me

I have but one heart it is but one home for all small - but big enough for all all have their home in this one heart in this one home all inside me except those who felt too good to be in a home made of me they made a world of their own and gave their home a name outside me - so I could find them again just in case they needed me inside me except those whose love was too pure to be loved by all too pure to be loved by me they made a room of their own a room called body and gave their room a name separate from all to protect them from the love of all from my love inside me most are in my home made of me inside me some are in their home made of them inside them inside me all are made of me all is made of me all are loved by me inside me all if you love all you are one with me one with all inside me we all call upon you we love you come here come inside all to be one with all one with me inside you inside me
